Comments From a Pastor

"WHY WORSHIP CHRIST"

By Rev. A. F. Russell

Impelling reasons turned the doubts of Thomas into the glorious affirmation of faith in those memorable words, "My Lord and My God."

Rebukes by his believing friends did not produce that change. Harsh denunciation did not make him move against his judgment. Thomas was led to believe because of a vital, personal conviction and experience of the reality of the living Christ.

Commitment to Christ is never "taking a chance." Faith in Christ is not "taking a leap into the dark unknown." Faith is taking a leap into the strong arms of the living Savior, Jesus Christ. Faith in Christ is not credulity. Faith in Christ is the response of a rational people to rationale ideas rationally conceived. Faith is justifiable on reasonable grounds. It is always very personal.

The Prophet was right then when he said, "choose ye this day whom ye will serve. If Jehovah be God serve Him, and Baal be god, serve him."

Man needs a master. He needs to choose his God and know why and whom he serves.

Divided loyalty are the results of divided personalities. It is an expression of the inner discord within man. That results in split personalities, confusion in the subconscience and ruinous complexities that is leading to most of the nervous, mental breakdowns of our day. Such experiences is very rare among people who have fully and consistently followed Christ out of a total commitment to Him.

My faith in Christ deepens with knowledge and experience.

I would like to give you some of the personal reasons of a growing faith and assurance.

I believe in Christ because of HIS WONDERFUL CHARACTER. This has more and more weight with us as we mature in our thinking. Men found no fault in Him. Enemies with eagle eyes looked for flaws in Him but never did He have sin to confess and somehow there is no revulsion on our part against Him as hypocritical. He lived like God. He is the brightest light ever seen on earth. If we would follow the highest then we must follow Him. Not to follow Christ is to confess that we prefere darkness.

I believe in Christ because of WHAT HE DID.

The Miracles of Christ are unique. He never used His power for self. His power was always used unselfishly for others. A few unbelievers today 2000 years removed from the event may question the reality of His miracles on a "Priori Ground," but no one who was there ever doubted the reality of His miracles. Even His enemies, "beholding the man which was healed standing with them, they could say nothing against it. (Acts 4:14-. Foe and friend alike bear witness to His miracles. None of His miracles was greater than what He did for the spirit of the men. Yes, I believe because of His miracles.

I believe in Christ as Lord and Savior because of His resurrection.

Historical scholars testify to the fact of history is better attested than the resurrection of Jesus Christ. This fact alone accounts for the transformation in the life of His disciples after His crucifixion. It changed them from despondent, defeated weakened men into men of courage. character and power.

I believe in Him because of HIS POWER AND INFLUENCE through the years and today.

The influence of George Washington may still be felt in the halls of Congress but we could preach George Washington in every pulpit of our land and it would not change men and they would not come to know God through him. He is not limited to time. Across the centuries and in every type of civilization men come to know God through Christ and He transforms them into men of character. Mr. A. C. Woodfin of Georgetown tells how two boys came to a home out in the west to ask for lodging for the night. The home looked rather rough after they entered and they wondered if it was safe. As they were ready to retire the old bearded man called them in his room and began to read the Bible. The boys knew then that they were safe in such a home. That is the influence of Christ. It is the living Christ who can touch lives across the centuries and give personal fellowship. Because He did that for a west Texas boy and took him out of the cotton patch and placed him in a pulpit in Cameron I cannot deny Him. In Christ we find life. The more our lives are identified with Him the finer and fuller life becomes. Do that with any other person and it tends to corrupt and ruin. This is another Uniqueness of Christ.

REV. RUSSELL IMPROVING

Applications For Ceiling Adjustments Accepted By OPS

The Houston district Office of Price Stabilization announced that it will accept applications for ceiling price adjustments from restaurant operators whose food and labor costs have increased since last February 9.

Applications will be accepted at the district OPS office, 903 Milam Bldg., Houston.

OPS will determine whether an operator of an eating establishment is entitled to an increase, price stabilization officials said.

Applications for adjustments must be made before Feb. 14, 1953. Operators entitled to new ceilings will be permitted to use them 20 days after mailink their applications and upon posting the new prices, unless they are notified by OPS that their applications have been disapproved.

A new amendment to the restaurant regulation, effective Dec. 23, permits adjustments for both food and labor cost increases. But if one of these costs has increased and the other decreased, the decrease will be used to offset the increase in authorizing an adjustment, the OPS said.

The amendment also sets up more precise provisions for posting of ceiling prices. Ceiling prices must be displayed on official OPS posters with the lettering either typed, printed, stamped or written so that both the names of the items and their ceiling prices will be legible to customers from a distance of four feet.

Area Rent Office Lists Information

Persons purchasing rental property in Killeen, Copperas Cove, Belton, Gatesville, and Milam county should immediately contact the area rent office, Mr. Goeman, rent director, said today.

"We have received complaints fro mindividuals who have purchased rental property that the seller had told them the legal registered maximum rent was much in excess of the actual figure," Goeman explained. "In such cases purchasers can suffer a real financial hardship because such a mistake is no justification for increasing the maximum rent.

"In other cases," he continued, "purchasers have been under the mistaken impression that they can obtain immediate occupancy of the rental unit after it is purchased although it is occupied by a tenant. The rent laws specifically say that a tenant cannot be evicted for owner occupancy until owner obtains a certificate from the rent office and it generally gives the tenant three months before eviction proceedings may be started."

The area rent director emphasized that the rent office will be glad to furnish all necessary information to purchasers or bona fide prospective purchasers of rental property, including such important items as the rent ceiling, services and facilities required to be furnished and the rights of a landlord under the Federal rent law.

All correspondence should be addressed to the Area Rent Office, 2nd Floor Ratliff Building, Killeen, Texas.

PLANTING FRUIT TREES

The severe drouth and untimely freezes that has been experienced for the last two years have greatly discouraged the planting of fruit trees in both home and commercial orchards. The number of fruit trees in Texas is at an all-time low. Most of the fresh fruit used in this state is being shipped in from other areas. Probably never before has the opportunity been greater for planting of fruit trees on either a home or commercial basis. Most of the state has had sufficient rain to assure good planing conditions and the outlook is bright for even more.

Variety selection is the first step in getting a new orchard going and is one of the most mportant. Varieties should be chosen that have a cold requirement low enough to be satisfied by the average winter temperatures of the area where they are to be grown. A list of recommended fruit varieties for each planting area may be found in the Extension publication C-150, available at the County Agent's office.

Some of newest peach varieties recommended for North Central Texas are: Cardinal, Dixired, Dixigem, Ranger. For South Central and East Texas are: Hiland, Redcap and Southland.

Because of the lack of moisture in the soil this fall, it is not likely that many peach trees have been treated for the peach tree borer thus far. Now there is sufficient moisture in the soil over most of Texas to allow proper treatment. It is too late to use Paradichlorobenzene crystals; this material is used from about October 20 to November 15 when the air and soil temperatures are fairly high. Ethlyene dichloride emulsion is a satisfactory chemical for this season of the year. Clear the grass and weeds from around the tree trunk. Build the ground level above where the borers are working in the trunk. Dilute the stock solution according to directions on the manufacturer's container. Apply one-half pint of the diluted ethylene dichloride emulsion mixture on the ground around bearing trees. Use one-fourth pint per tree for 2 to 4 year old trees. Cover the liquid with a thin layer of soil. Ethlyene dichloride emulsion should be applied when the soil is not too wet and the temperature is above 45 degrees.

Pruning should start as soon as the trees are completely dormant. One or two rather sharp freezes are usually required to put the trees in a thoroughly dormant condition. Pruning should be completed before the dormant spray is applied and before bad weather sets in.

It has been said that San Jose Scale probably kills more peach trees in Texas than any other single trouble. The first indication from this scale insect is the killing of limbs or branches. A limb or branch that has been attacked is distinguished by its characteristic ashy-gray appearance. The full grown scale is a tiny object about the size of a pinhead and looks like a tiny "lemon drop." The insect secretes a waxy covering over its body for protection. It is this waxy covering that has the ashy-gray color and is what is generally seen in the orchard. However, the insect itself can be seen by lifting up the waxy cover.

This insect can be controlled by spraying during the dormant season with a 3% oil emulsion spray or a lime-sulphur spray, made by mixing 12 gallons of liquid lime sulphur or 30 pounds of dry lime sulphur to 100 gallons of water. Either material gives effective control, if properly applied. Complete coverage must be obtained. If an area no larger than your thumb nail escapes the spray, there may be enough "seed" scale left to cover the entire tree next season. Severely infested trees may be marked to receive a second spray shortly before the buds begin to swell in the spring. The lime-sulphur spray will also control the peach leaf curl disease.

Texas Population Increases 621,000

The Texas Employment Commission estimated Tuesday that Texas' population has increased 621,300 since the 1950 federal census.

For these new Texas residents, TEC said 160,000 new homes have been built and more than $2,100,000,000 worth of new industrial plants have been built or contracted for in the past two years.

To man these new facilities, it was estimated 304,400 new workers have been added to employer payrolls.

TEC said the growth has not been uniform throughout the state. Larger counties have attracted a disporportionately large share of the immigrants.

About 61 counties lost population, 80 showed gains of varying degrees and 19 have remained relatively unchanged, TEC said.

TEXAN PARADE

By ROSS PHARES

PLACE NAMES TELL MUCH TEXAS HISTORY

Much imagination—or lack of it—has characterized the naming of Texas towns. An interesting and large book could be composed on stories behind Texas place names.

Many names bespeak of grim beginnings: Hempstead was so notorious for violent deaths that for many years it was commonly referred to as Six-Shooter Junction.

Babyhead is a grim reminder of Indian raid days. About 1850 the Comanches raided this section, captured a baby, beheaded it and put the head on a pole on a mountain top. The mountain and community took its name from the incident.

Horse Head Crossing, a famous ford on the Pecos in Southwest Texas, got its name from the skulls of horses that marked the way to the shallow crossing.

Some names were generally considered of such lowly and embarrassing origin that they were later changed: Hide Town was approximately designated. But when the tough old buffalo hunters and skinners moved out, and the smell of hides and the sight of bleached bones disappeared, the population decided the community needed a more respectable title. They did, however, retain some of the frontier flavor by naming it for a hardy frontiersman, Pete Snyder.

Rake Pocket was considered too suggestive for a community in Rusk County. So the inhabitants changed its name to Pine Hill.

Hog Town would have been considered too poor and lowly a name for a prosperous oil town. A native justice of the peace had a daughter with a much more beautiful and elevated name. So the town was named Desdemona for her.

Sometimes, it appears, the town namers were hard pressed for a title: When the founding fathers of Razor had been turned down on a first suggestion for the name of a postoffice, one citizen latched onto the first thing he saw for a title—a plug of tobacco bearing a tin tag carrying the brand name of "Razor." The postoffice officials accepted the name.

Citizens of Lee County had a practice of leaving their letters at Brown's Mill with a dime in the box for carrying charges. When enough dimes had accumulated to pay a mail carrier, one would take the letters to the nearest postoffice. Finally the citizens got a postoffice of their own. They could think of no name more appropriate than Dime Box.

When the railroad company started surveying a route across John Pierce's ranch, he was asked what he thought of a station in that country. He shouted: "Thank God, that would be a blessing." As a token of thanksgiving for the new convenience, he proposed the name "Thank God" for the station. The railroad officials considered this too irreverent. They compromised on the name "Blessing."

The list of unique and colorful names would be long. There is a Poverty Slant, Shake Rag, Gourd Neck, Frog Level, Flat Heel, Short Pone, Nip and Tuck, Steal Easy, Possum Trot, and Lick Skillet.

Milam Farm Bureau Delegation To Attend District Eight Conference

Legislative strategy and organization plans for the Texas Farm Bureau in 1953 will be discussed at a special District 8 conference of state and local Farm Bureau leaders Jan. 21 at the Kyle Hotel in Temple, Texas, according to S. W. McClaren, state director from this district.

Several members of the Milam County Farm Bureau plan to attend the meeting. A number of important discussions relative of the work of the bureau will be discussed.

The meeting is one of a series of legislative and organization conferences being held this month in 12 of the 13 Farm Bureau districts in the state. The sessions will begin at 10 a. m. with a report on the last state board meeting by the district director.

Legislative, organization and publicity conferences start at 11 a. m. and continue until noon. Vice-president C. H. DeVaney of Coahoma will preside at the legislative meet, State Field Representative Leon M. Lane will preside at the organization conference and Information Director Bill Hoover will meet with local newspaper reporters and county Farm Bureau publicity directors.

O. R. Long, southern field representative of the American Farm Bureau Federation, is scheduled to speak at a noon luncheon for the group.

Conferences will resume at 1 p. m. At that time, DeVaney will speak to the assembly on "The Challenge to Texas Farm Bureau Federation." Following his talk, Lane will speak on the topic "Now is the Time." A discussion period is scheduled after the speeches.

To be discussed in the conference will be issues expected to come before the 53rd session of the Texas Legislature which meets Jan. 13 in Austin. These include legislation affecting rural roads, non-highway gas rebates, water and seed laws and many more issues vital to persons engaged in agriculture. The Texas Farm Bureau Federations was considered the most influential lobby at the last legislative session.

Among other things, the state farm organization led the fight that saved the rural road program in Texas and non-highway gasoline rebates. The Farm Bureau was also instrumental in obtaining other legislation favorable to the farmers and ranchers. Allied with the Farm Bureau in the road program battle were the rural letter carriers and county judges associations. Had the fight been lost, it would have meant, among the many repercussions, that the counties would lose their present road bond assumption monies, and that new sources of revenue would have to be found to finance county governments.

In the light of the vital issues expected to come become the legislature, DeVaney has urged all persons interested in the welfare of agriculture in Texas to join the Farm Bureau movement.

Plane Lands In Little River Bottom Tuesday Night

Melvin Senkel of Calexico, Calif., was forced down in his plane around 7 p. m. Tuesday. Dec. 30. He landed his small plane on the gravel road in the Little River bottom just east of the Cameron Country Club on the Marlow road. He flew in from California to see his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Will Senkel of Cameron.

Senkel was running out of gas and landed behind a car that was passing through the bottom. The left wing of the plane struck a post and pulled his plane off the road several feet into the muddy field.

He attempted to take off Wednesday morning but was unable to do so on account of the mud. His plane spuddered several yards out into the muddy field in the take-off attempt.

The question mark above is of unusual interest since discovery that gamma globulin gives temporary protection from paralytic polio. The need for further evaluation of the substance and its limited supply make it unlikely that 1953 polio picture will be much affected by the discovery. A vaccine still must be perfected. Meanwhile, cases needing care continue to mount following 1952's all-time record polio epidemic.

What Good Is a Baby?

The story is told of a research man who had just discovered a new substance. A friend asked, "What good is it?"

"What good is a baby?" countered the researcher.

Babies and new products have to grow up before anyone knows how important they may be. Quite a lot of infants have been brought up at General Electric during the past 75 years. During the bottle stage, nobody could predict their future accurately. But as it turns out today, they were real prodigies. Here are just a few that were first brought to the American public by General Electric men and women:

- the first electric lamp
- the first home refrigerator with sealed mechanism
- the first high-vacuum radio power tube
- the first fluorescent lamp
- the first automatic electric blanket
- the first large steam turbine for electric power
- the first jet plane engine in U.S.
- the first disposer for kitchen food waste
- the first high-voltage x-ray

We don't ordinarily trot out the past like this. But 1953 marks a birthday. For it was in 1878 that Thomas Edison organized the first of the companies which, in 1892, became the General Electric Company. And, like anyone on his birthday, we do look back over our shoulder.

This is just the beginning, really. Research and engineering are bringing out new things faster than ever—new "babies" to lighten labor and brighten everybody's life.
